Call for papers for a joint meeting of WG3 & WG5

University of Leiden, Netherlands

24-25 October 2018

The purpose of a joint workshop for WG3 & WG5 is to combine forces, knowledge and experience in the area of user-oriented design strategies and questions related to ethical involvement of users, legal regulations, and commercialisation for creating a new language learning platform based on crowdsourcing.

This workshop is aimed at providing a space for presenting smaller and larger research, and at creating an opportunity for an intensive discussion that would lead to a mutual understanding of the above interdisciplinary, but related topics. The meeting will offer talks by keynote speakers on a relevant topic (to be announced later) and stimulate a brainstorming discussion on the presented contributions.

WG3 & WG5 topic description:

Motivational, ethical and legal issues in crowdsourcing

Contributions are welcome (but are not limited) to the following WG3 subtopics:

- Motivation / retention behaviour of learners in educational platforms/applications, and games with a purpose (GWP)
- Motivation / retention behaviour of content contributors in educational platforms/applications, and games with a purpose (GWP)
- Motivation / retention behaviour in crowd-sourced platforms/applications
- Defining attractive features for users in the current state-of-the-art of CALL and MALL
- The effect of gamification and gamified user interfaces (UIs) on a crowd of various users (learners, content providers) in educational platforms/applications, or games with a purpose (GWP)
- Studies of user interfaces (UIs) in educational platforms and applications
- Ethical issues in crowdsourcing or educational platforms or applications
- Legal issues in crowdsourcing or educational platforms or applications
